Synopsis

The Highlander Takes a Bride is a historical romance novel by Karen Marie Moning. It is the first book in the Highland Brides series. The novel tells the story of Catriona Cameron, a young Scottish woman who is kidnapped by a powerful Highlander named Lachlan MacAllister.

Catriona is the daughter of a Scottish laird. She is a beautiful and spirited young woman, but she is also headstrong and independent. When she is kidnapped by Lachlan MacAllister, she is determined to resist him at every turn.

Lachlan is a powerful and ruthless Highlander. He is used to getting what he wants, and he is determined to make Catriona his wife. He is attracted to her beauty and spirit, but he is also intrigued by her defiance.

As Catriona and Lachlan spend more time together, they begin to develop a grudging respect for each other. Catriona realizes that Lachlan is not the heartless brute she first thought he was, and Lachlan realizes that Catriona is not the spoiled and selfish woman he had expected.

Eventually, Catriona and Lachlan fall in love. However, their love is forbidden. Lachlan is a Highlander, and Catriona is a Scottish laird's daughter. Their marriage would be seen as a betrayal of both their clans.

Despite the obstacles, Catriona and Lachlan are determined to be together. They elope and live happily ever after.
