Rising majestically from the Atlantic Ocean, the Cliffs of Moher are Ireland's most visited natural attraction. Stretching for over 8 kilometers (5 miles) along the western coast of County Clare, the cliffs offer breathtaking views of the rugged coastline and the Aran Islands. Visitors can walk along the clifftop path, taking in the stunning scenery, or experience the cliffs from a different perspective with a boat tour.

Glendalough

Nestled in the Wicklow Mountains, Glendalough is a scenic valley that was home to a monastic settlement founded by St. Kevin in the 6th century. The ruins of the monastery, including the round tower, cathedral, and churches, can still be seen today. Visitors can explore the ancient monastic site, walk along the scenic hiking trails, or take a boat trip on the Upper Lake.

Blarney Castle

Located in County Cork, Blarney Castle is one of Ireland's most popular tourist attractions. The castle is best known for the Blarney Stone, a block of limestone that is said to give the power of eloquence to those who kiss it. Visitors can climb to the top of the castle for stunning views of the surrounding countryside, explore the castle's dungeons, or kiss the Blarney Stone for their chance at eloquence.

Guinness Storehouse

Located in the heart of Dublin, the Guinness Storehouse is a must-visit for beer lovers. The storehouse tells the story of Guinness, Ireland's famous stout, and offers visitors the chance to learn about the brewing process, sample different Guinness beers, and enjoy panoramic views of Dublin from the Gravity Bar.

Trinity College Dublin

Founded in 1592, Trinity College Dublin is one of the world's leading universities.
